CHAMPIONS of the COMMUNITY

The MAGIC and its Official Partners Teaming to Build a Stronger Central Florida Community

ABOUT THE ORLANDO MAGIC

Orlando's NBA franchise since 1989, the Magic's mission is to be world champions on and off the court, delivering legendary moments every step of the way. On the court, Orlando has won five division championships (1995, 1996, 2008, 2009, 2010), had seven 50-plus win seasons, and won the Eastern Conference title in 1995 and 2009. Off the court, on an annual basis, the Orlando Magic gives more than $2 million to the local community by way of sponsorships of events, donated tickets, autographed merchandise, scholarships and grants. Orlando Magic community relations programs impact an estimated 75,000 kids each year, while a Magic staff-wide initiative provides more than 6,000 volunteer hours annually. In addition, over the last 21 years more than $16 million has been distributed to local non-profit community organizations via the Orlando Magic Youth Fund (OMYF-MFF), a McCormick Foundation Fund since 1994, which serves at-risk youth. Ticket highlights for the 2011-12 season in the Amway Center include: 2,500 seats priced $20 or less, 8,000 seats priced $40 or less and 9,000 seats priced $50 or under. The NBA and its teams will have more than one million tickets available to fans for $10 or less over the course of the season. For ticket information log on to OrlandoMagic.com or call 407-89-MAGIC.

Through the National Basketball Association's NBA Cares program, the league, players and teams have donated more than $145 million to charity, provided more than 1.4 million hours of hands-on service to communities around the world, and created more than 525 places where kids and families can live, learn, or play. The NBA is broadcast in 215 countries and territories in 41 languages.

ABOUT THE AMWAY CENTER

The Orlando Magic served as the developer of the Amway Center, which hosts major national events, concerts and family shows. Opened in the fall of 2010, the facility is owned and operated by the City of Orlando on behalf of the Central Florida community.

The Amway Center was designed to reflect the character of the community, meet the goals of the users and build on the legacy of sports and entertainment in Orlando. The building's exterior features a modern blend of glass and metal materials, along with ever-changing graphics via a monumental wall along one façade. A 180-foot tall tower serves as a beacon amid the downtown skyline. At 875,000 square feet, the new arena is almost triple the size of the old Amway Arena (367,000 square feet). The Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED) Gold certified building features a sustainable, environmentally-friendly design and unmatched technology, featuring 1,100 digital monitors, the tallest high-definition videoboard in an NBA venue and multiple premium amenities available to all patrons in the building.

Every level of ticket buyer has access to: the Budweiser Baseline Bar and food court, Gentleman Jack Terrace, Jernigan's, Nutrilite Magic Fan Experience, Orlando on Demand, STUFF's Magic Castle presented by CLUB WYNDHAM® and multiple indoor-outdoor spaces which celebrate Florida's climate.

MEDIA INTRODUCTION AND GUIDELINES

TO THE MEDIA

Welcome to the 23rd season of Orlando Magic basketball and second in the Amway Center. We are very pleased to supply this publication and hope it will answer many of your questions throughout the next several months. We sincerely appreciate your interest in the Magic and will do everything possible to meet your needs throughout the course of the season. This guide will be supplemented with materials on a regular basis during the year. Again, if we can ever be of any assistance, please do not hesitate to call on us. In an effort to continue to provide a professional working environment, we have established the following guidelines for the upcoming campaign.

CREDENTIALS

Single-game media credentials can be reserved by accredited media members by calling the Communications Department at least 24 hours before a game (no exceptions) at 407-916-2532 or e-mailing magiccredentials@orlandomagic.com. Media members covering the Magic on a regular basis will be issued season passes, but are still required to reserve seating at all games by calling or e-mailing the Communications Department by the deadlines mentioned above. Credentials will allow working media members entry into the arena, while also providing reserved media seating and access to both team locker rooms and the media workroom. In all cases, credentials are non-transferable and any unauthorized use will subject the bearer to ejection from the arena and forfeiture of the credential. All single-game credentials may be picked up on gamedays at the media entrance of the arena, located at the southwest corner of the building (South Street, event level).

MEDIA WORKROOM

The Magic media workroom is located in the southwest corner of the arena on the event level and will be opened two hours prior to game time. Admittance/space is limited to working media members with credentials only. The media workroom will remain open throughout the game and until the last working media members have finished their game-night duties. The professional intent of the media workroom is to provide a meeting and working place for writers, reporters, broadcasters and game personnel. Family members and guests of media members will not be accommodated in the media workroom. Any abuse of the media workroom and/or media privileges will result in a forfeiture of your media pass. Television monitors, telephones and work space will all be provided in the media workroom.

LOCKER ROOMS

The Magic locker room is located on the northwest corner of the event level, while the visitors' locker room is located on the southwest corner. In accordance with NBA policy, both locker rooms will be open 90 minutes prior to tip-off until 45 minutes before game time and 15 minutes after the game. Only those individuals with prominently displayed credentials will gain admittance into the locker rooms. Your cooperation and courtesy are asked in maintaining proper working atmosphere for postgame interviews.

INTERVIEWS

As stated above, pregame interviews are allowed 90 minutes prior to tip-off until 45 minutes prior to game time. Postgame interviews are conducted as follows: both the Magic head coach (in interview room) and the visiting team head coach (at opposing locker room entrance) will address media members approximately 10 minutes after the game. Your cooperation and professional courtesy are asked in maintaining a proper working atmosphere for postgame interviews.

PRACTICE/SHOOT-AROUNDS

As a general rule, Orlando practices and game-day shoot-arounds will be open to the media near the completion of each workout. In both cases, interviews with players and coaches will follow the workouts. Please call the Communications Department to confirm practice times and locations.

TELEVISION/RADIO

Television and radio broadcast positions are located along the scorer's table on the west sideline of the event level and on the radio deck, which is located on the west side of the club level. The Magic Communications Department will be happy to arrange statisticians for visiting radio and television broadcasters. If statisticians are needed, please contact the Magic Communications Department at least 24 hours prior to game time. Once arrangements are made for statisticians, the individual must be paid whether or not they are used. The Communications Department will be happy to arrange pregame, halftime, and postgame interviews according to NBA guidelines. Please make arrangements for those interviews as early as possible.

MEDIA SEATING

Reserved media seating has been designated in the media loge (northwest corner of arena on club level), as well as in the press box (west sideline on press level). All seats are reserved and marked with placecards for each individual media member. To avoid embarrassment, individuals are asked to sit in their pre-assigned seats. Seating charts are also posted in the media workroom and throughout the building. Electrical outlets and telephones are placed at press seats for your convenience. If a media member is in need of an individual phone, please contact the Communications Department for assistance. Statistics will be distributed to the press seating locations periodically.

PHOTOGRAPHERS/VIDEOGRAPHERS

Limited space is available on each baseline for both still photographers and television cameramen. All are required to pick up photo passes upon entering the arena. Photographers without photo passes will not be allowed on the arena floor. Freelance photographers will not be credentialed without a certificate of assignment from an established publication.

MEDIA TICKETS

A limited number of game tickets are available for media purchase on a single-game basis from the Magic Communications Department. Unfortunately, due to the small number available, all requests cannot be honored. There are limitations to the number of tickets allotted to each request, and all requests should be made no later than 5:00 p.m. the day before a game (5:00 p.m. Friday for a weekend game).

MEDIA PARKING

Members of the media can use their parking pass to park in the lots designated on the parking pass they receive. There are a limited number of single-game parking passes available for visiting media members upon request of the Communications Department. Satellite TV truck parking will be provided for up to four satellite trucks on the west side of Division Street. For technical assistance with TV truck and satellite truck parking and coordination, please contact Jennifer Lenhart-Belawski in the Magic's Broadcast Technology and Services Department at 407-916-2571.

SERVICES

A pregame media meal will be served in the media workroom in the southwest corner on the event level. Beverages are also provided at all times in the media workroom. Game notes and a limited number of media guides and game programs will be available in the media workroom before the start of the game.

In addition, play-by-play sheets, halftime and quarter boxscores and postgame quotes will be available in the media workroom following the game. Complimentary fax service is also available upon request. Boxscores and play-by-play sheets will be delivered in a prompt manner to the press seating locations at the end of each quarter. Advance game notes will be delivered to the hotel of all visiting media members. In order to provide this service efficiently, we ask that you contact the Magic Communications Department if you are not staying in the designated team hotel. If there is anything else that we can do to assist in your coverage of the Magic this NBA season, please don't hesitate to ask.

AMWAY CENTER MEDIA INFO

THE DeVos FAMILY

The DeVos family purchased the Orlando Magic in September of 1991. At that time, family head Rich DeVos stated that the DeVos family is simply the team's current caretaker, making it clear that the real owners of the NBA franchise would continue to be the Central Florida community and the loyal Magic fans. Since purchasing the team, the franchise has won five division championships (Atlantic Division: 1994-95, 1995-96; Southeast Division: 2007-08, 2008-09, 2009-10), two Eastern Conference titles (1994-95, 2008-09) and had seven 50-win seasons, including a franchise-record 60 victories in 1995-96. The Magic have advanced to the playoffs 13 times and finished with a .500 record or better in 15 of the last 19 seasons.

The acquisition and operation of the Magic is a family affair involving Rich, his wife, Helen, and their four children and spouses: Dick and Betsy DeVos, Dan and Pamella DeVos, Cheri and Bob Vander Weide, and Doug and Maria DeVos.

Although the senior DeVoses have an established residence in southern Florida, the family was introduced to the Central Florida community during Orlando's drive to bring major league baseball to "The City Beautiful." An ensuing relationship was formed between the DeVos family and the city of Orlando.

The baseball venture left them with a heightened interest in professional sports ownership. The 85-year-old co-founder of Amway – today a global leader in direct selling – envisioned incorporating the philosophies that made him a successful businessman with that of a solid, young NBA franchise. He understands the impact professional sports can have on the upcoming generation, and he is committed to ensuring the team provides a positive, encouraging example.

The DeVos family played a key role in helping to secure the new state-of-the-art Amway Center in Orlando. The Amway Center is part of a public community venues program that also includes a new Performing Arts Center and a renovation of the Citrus Bowl Stadium. The new Amway Center opened in October 2010. In addition, the Magic also contributed $12.5 million toward construction of five community recreation centers throughout Orange County, Florida, as part of its commitment to build the new Amway Center.

From 1995-2001, RDV Sports owned and operated the Orlando Solar Bears of the International Hockey League. During their six seasons of existence, the Solar Bears captured one division title (Central Division, 1995-96), three Eastern Conference crowns (1996, 1999, 2001) and the IHL's Turner Cup championship in 2000-01. Orlando compiled an all-time regular season record of 286-162-44 (.626), the best in the league over that time frame.

From 1998-2002, the Orlando Miracle of the WNBA was part of the RDV Sports portfolio. The Miracle played in their inaugural season during the summer of 1999 and made the playoffs in 2000.

RDV Sports, named for Rich DeVos and the general partner of the Magic, has been and continues to be an active partner in the Central Florida community. In February of 1998, RDV Sports, in partnership with Florida Hospital, opened the $50 million, 365,000-square-foot RDV Sportsplex. The RDV Sportsplex is a state-of-the-art health and wellness facility, which includes a world-class health club, medical offices, restaurant, retail shops, and front office facilities for the Magic.

He is responsible for overseeing basketball operations, including player acquisitions via the draft, free agency and trades, player development, scouting and salary cap management. Smith was named general manager on May 3, 2006. He was assistant general manager during the 2005-06 campaign, after serving as director of player development for two seasons.

Under Smith's leadership from 2005-06 to 2010-11, Orlando has recorded 50-plus victories in a club-record four straight seasons (2007-08 to 2010-11), made it to the playoffs all five times, captured three consecutive Southeast Division titles (2007-10), advanced to the Eastern Conference Finals in two straight postseasons (2009-10) and reached the 2009 NBA Finals after winning the Eastern Conference title. The Magic are 262-148 (.639) during Smith's tenure as general manager.

Last season (2010-11), Orlando went 52-30 (.634), which was good for fourth-best in the Eastern Conference. The Magic surpassed the 50-win plateau for the fourth consecutive season, setting a new franchise record.

In 2009-10, the Magic reached the Eastern Conference Finals for a second consecutive time after posting a 59-23 (.720) regular season record, which was second-best in the NBA, and captured its third consecutive Southeast Division crown and fifth division title overall. During the previous off-season, Smith did not stand pat, as the Magic, among other moves, acquired eight-time NBA All-Star Vince Carter and Ryan Anderson in a trade with New Jersey.

During the 2008-09 campaign, the Magic went on a historic playoff run, winning the Eastern Conference championship and earning a berth in the NBA Finals for the second time in team history. During the regular season, Orlando posted a 59-23 (.720) record and captured its second consecutive Southeast Division championship. It also marked the second-most victories ever by the club.

In 2007-08, the Magic went 52-30 (.634) and won the Southeast Division title, the team's first division crown since 1995-96. During the playoffs, Orlando advanced past the First Round for the first time since 1996. That off-season, Smith was instrumental in acquiring free agent All-Star forward Rashard Lewis and signing All-NBA center Dwight Howard to a contract extension.

During the 2005-06 campaign, Smith played a key role in helping the Magic gain future significant salary cap flexibility by obtaining the expiring contract of Anfernee Hardaway from New York, along with Trevor Ariza, for Steve Francis. He also extended the contracts of Howard, Jameer Nelson and Tony Battie. Orlando won 16 of its last 22 games of the season, including 12 of its last 13 at home.

Smith spent the 2002-03 season as executive director of basketball operations for the Golden State Warriors. In that role, he oversaw the day-to-day operations of the basketball operations department and worked in conjunction with the players and basketball staff. During the previous two-plus seasons, Smith was director of community relations/Warriors Foundation.

Smith is no stranger to "The City Beautiful." He was a member of the inaugural 1989-90 Magic squad and spent three seasons playing in Orlando (1989-92). Smith averaged 11.4 ppg., 4.1 rpg., 1.9 apg. and 1.01 stlpg. in 195 games with the Magic. He played in 375 career NBA regular season games with Denver, Golden State and Orlando, averaging 10.5 ppg., 3.8 rpg., 1.8 apg. and 1.01 stlpg. in 20.6 minpg.

Folllowing his retirement as a player, Smith served as community relations manager for the Magic for two years. During that time, the organization was presented the Pro Team Community Award, given by the World Sports Humanitarian Hall of Fame. He was also vice president of marketing and community relations of the Boys and Girls Club of Central Florida.

Born and raised in Jacksonville, Florida, and a 1986 graduate of Jacksonville University, he founded the Otis Smith Kids Foundation on October 30, 1989 as a means to improve the quality of life and outlook for the future of deserving Northeast Florida elementary school children. The Foundation provided programs and services to hundreds of disadvantaged children each year in the areas of education, life skills development and personal growth. Stan Van Gundy was named head coach of the Orlando Magic on June 7, 2007, becoming the ninth head coach in franchise history.

Last season (2010-11), Orlando finished 52-30 (.634), good for second place in the Southeast Division and fourth-best in the Eastern Conference. The Magic surpassed the 50-win plateau for the fourth consecutive season, setting a new franchise record. Van Gundy became the second-fastest active NBA coach to 300 career wins and the seventh-fastest all-time on Dec. 25 vs. Boston. He also coached in his 500th career game on Mar. 16 @ Milwaukee and had the sixth-most wins in NBA history through 500 contests. Van Gundy recorded his 200th win as head coach of the Magic on Jan. 26 @ Indiana.

Van Gundy has a career NBA head coaching regular season record of 334-179 (.651). He has been named head coach of the Eastern Conference at the NBA All-Star Game twice (2005, 2010) and has earned the NBA's Eastern Conference Coach of the Month six times during his career. Van Gundy has a 222-106 (.677) regular season record in four seasons with Orlando (2007-11). The Magic have made it to the playoffs all four times, captured three consecutive Southeast Division titles (2007-10), advanced to the Eastern Conference Finals in two straight postseasons (2009-10) and reached the 2009 NBA Finals after winning the Eastern Conference title.

In 2009-10, Van Gundy guided the team to the Eastern Conference Finals for the second straight time, after compiling a 59-23 (.720) regular season record. It was the second-best mark in the NBA, and Orlando captured the Southeast Division title for the third consecutive season. Van Gundy guided the East to a 141-139 win at the 2010 NBA All-Star Game. He coached in his 400th regular season game on Feb. 7 @ Boston and ranked third among active head coaches for most victories after 400 career games (257 wins). history. During the regular season, Orlando posted a 59-23 (.720) record and captured the Southeast Division title. It was the team's second consecutive division crown and its fourth overall.

In 2007-08, his first season with Orlando, Van Gundy led the Magic to a 52-30 (.634) record and the Southeast Division championship. It was the team's first division crown since 1995-96. Orlando also advanced past the opening round of the NBA Playoffs for the first time since 1996, defeating Toronto, 4-1.

Van Gundy served as head coach of the Miami Heat for two-plus seasons from 2003-05, posting a regular season record of 112-73 and a postseason mark of 17-11. His .605 regular season and .607 playoff winning percentages are both tops in franchise history. His 17 playoff victories place him second on the Heat's all-time list and his 112 regular season wins ranks third in team history.

Despite a rash of injuries and an unforgiving schedule which saw the Heat drop their first seven games, Van Gundy righted the ship and led Miami to a 42-40 record during his first season as head coach in 2003-04. They became just the fourth team since the NBA went to its current playoff format in 1983-84 to reach the playoffs after starting the season with at least seven consecutive losses. The 42 wins was a 17-win improvement from the previous season, the second-best turnaround in franchise history and the fourth-best in the NBA from 2002-03 to 2003-04.

Van Gundy earned NBA Eastern Conference Coach of the Month for March 2004, after leading the Heat to an Eastern Conference-best 12-3 mark during the month. Miami finished the regular season by going 17-4 over its final 21 games, finished second in the Atlantic Division and earned homecourt advantage in the First Round of the playoffs.

During the 2004 NBA Playoffs, Miami defeated New Orleans during the First Round, 4-3, making Van Gundy just the fourth rookie coach in NBA history to win a decisive seventh game during a playoff series. He guided the Heat to the Eastern Conference Semifinals for just the third time in franchise history, where they eventually fell to top-seeded Indiana in six games.

Expectations rose for the Heat in 2004-05 when Miami acquired All-Star center Shaquille O'Neal, and Van Gundy did not disappoint, leading them to a 59-23 record, the second-most wins during a single season in team history, and the Southeast Division championship. The Heat won the division by 14 games, the largest margin for any division winner in the NBA that season. For the second straight time, he guided the Heat to a 17-win improvement from the previous season, making him only the second coach in NBA history to lead his team to at least 15-win improvements in consecutive seasons.

Van Gundy was named head coach of the Eastern Conference All-Stars for the 2005 NBA All-Star Game in Denver, where he led the East to a 10-point win. He also earned NBA Eastern Conference Coach of the Month honors in both December 2004 and March 2005. The Heat went on a franchise-record 14-game winning streak from Dec. 6-Jan. 1 and later reeled off 12 consecutive victories from Feb. 26-Mar. 19, becoming the first Eastern Conference team with a pair of double-digit win streaks in the same season since the 1995-96 NBA Champion Chicago Bulls.

During the 2005 NBA Playoffs, Miami advanced to the Eastern Conference Finals, recording four-game sweeps of both New Jersey and Washington. It marked just the second time in Heat history that they reached the Conference Finals and came within minutes of a trip to the NBA Finals, before falling to Detroit in Game #7. It was also the first time in team history that Miami had advanced to at least the Conference Semifinals in consecutive seasons.

Van Gundy spent 12 years with the Heat, arriving prior to the 1995-96 campaign and served as assistant coach under Pat Riley for two seasons. He was elevated to assistant head coach in 1997, a position he held for six seasons. Van Gundy was the team's lead assistant until being named head coach on Oct. 24, 2003. He resigned as head coach on Dec. 12, 2005 for personal reasons, but remained with the organization as an NBA scout and later a consultant.

Prior to his tenure with Miami, Van Gundy coached at the University of Wisconsin for three seasons, including head coach in 1994-95. He began his coaching career as an assistant at the University of Vermont from 1981-83, then served as head coach at Castleton State College (VT) from 1983-86. After stints as an assistant coach at Canisius College (1986-87) and Fordham (1987-88), he was head coach at the University of Massachusetts-Lowell from 1988-92. In eight years as a college head coach, Van Gundy compiled a record of 135-92 (.595).

A native of Indio, Ca., Van Gundy was born on Aug. 26, 1959. He earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in English and a Bachelor of Science in physical education from SUNY-Brockport in 1981. While at SUNY-Brockport, Van Gundy played basketball for his father, Bill. His brother, Jeff, was a head coach in the NBA for 11 seasons, most recently with the Houston Rockets. Van Gundy and his wife, Kim, have four children, Shannon (20), Michael (17), Alison (14) and Kelly (12).

A MODERN DAY P.T. BARNUM, Pat Williams turned a dream into the Orlando Magic more than 20 years ago.

"I had been working in conjunction with Jimmy Hewitt on this idea of trying to bring a basketball team to Orlando," said Williams. "He had put everything in place with ownership, an arena, the backing of the city. He called one night, late April 1986, and I remember taking the phone call in my kitchen. Jimmy, in his unmistakable southern drawl, said, 'Bubba, we've gone about as far as we can go down here. If you come down here and spearhead it we'll go forward...If you don't, we'll pull the plug'."

Williams could feel the urgency. He knew it was decision time.

"We (Philadelphia 76ers) were getting ready for the lottery in which we had a pick and we were getting ready for the playoffs. We ended up winning the lottery and had a good playoff run

OMYF BLACK TIE & TENNIES CHARITY GALA

Each year, Central Floridians come to this landmark event for one reason and one reason only: the kids. For the first time in history, the 21st Annual OMYF Black Tie and Tennies Gala presented by FAIRWINDS, was held at the beautiful Amway Center. Voted "Best Charity Gala" in 2009 by Orlando Magazine, the evening was sophisticated, chic, and filled with exciting games and auction prizes to raise money for the Orlando Magic Youth Foundation. This year the gala featured a karaoke stage, a dance floor, and a display of silent and live auction items and generated more than $800,000.

The highlight of the evening is the presentation of the Rich & Helen DeVos $50,000 Community Enrichment Award, which honors a Magic player who has dedicated his efforts off the court for the purpose of enhancing others' lives. Dwight Howard was honored at the Gala with his fourth consecutive, and fifth overall, Community Enrichment award for his continued efforts off the court.

RICH AND HELEN DEVOS COMMUNITY ENRICHMENT AWARD

Magic owners Rich and Helen DeVos established this program to honor an Orlando Magic player who dedicates his efforts beyond the basketball court to enhance the lives of others. In selecting the player each year, the anonymous committee looks at several criteria including the three "A's": Action, Attitude and Atmosphere. Specifically, that means the player's actions off the court are honorable in nature, the player displays a respectable attitude toward those he comes in contact with, and the player shies away from situations that may be negatively perceived and provides a positive environment for others through his actions. Rich and Helen donate $50,000 to the charity of the honored player's choice.

For the fifth time during his Magic career, Dwight Howard won the award in 2011 for his willingness to do whatever it takes to make his team and community a better place.

MAGIC JOURNEY TO THE ARTS

According to the Florida Alliance for Arts Education, more Americans today work in arts, entertainment, and design than work as lawyers, accountants, and auditors. The Central Florida non-profit arts community is in jeopardy and funding reductions have resulted in students having less access to the arts. In an effort to promote the importance of the arts, we have supported programs and organizations such as United Arts, Orlando Philharmonic and the Reparatory Theater.

The Orlando Magic Journey to the Arts program, in partnership with the Orange County Arts Education Center teamed up and provided transportation to nearly 12,000 students to local arts venues such as Orlando Reparatory Theater, Orlando Science Center and accessibility to performances by Michelle Puppets and Orsi-Risi African Folklore. NICK ANDERSON

As part of its continued commitment to the Central Florida community, Nick Anderson joined the organization's community relations department as community ambassador during the summer of 2006. Anderson, who was a staple in the Orlando community as a player for 10 seasons (1989-99), will continue to take part in a variety of community outreach efforts.

The Magic's first-ever NBA Draft selection out of the University of Illinois (11th overall, 1989 NBA Draft), Anderson played 10 seasons for Orlando from 1989-99. In 692 career regular season games with the Magic, he averaged 15.4 ppg., 5.3 rpg., 2.8 apg. and 1.45 stlpg. Anderson ranks as the franchise's all-time leading scorer with 10,650 points. Anderson may best be remembered for one of the greatest moments in Magic history – stealing the ball from Michael Jordan during the closing seconds of Game 1 of the 1995 Eastern Conference Semifinals, allowing Orlando to win the contest and eventually move on to the NBA Finals.

In 2005-06, Anderson was the first honoree as part of the Magic's "Commitment to the Past" program, a multi-season effort aimed at embracing Magic history and the team's former players. Anderson won the inaugural Rich and Helen DeVos Community Enrichment Award in 1995-96.

BO OUTLAW

As part of its continued commitment to the Central Florida community, Charles "Bo" Outlaw joined the organization's community relations department as community ambassador in February of 2008. Outlaw, who was extremely active in the Orlando community as a player with the Magic for six-plus seasons, will continue to take part in a variety of community outreach efforts.

A 14-year NBA veteran, Outlaw played in 914 career NBA regular season games with the L.A. Clippers, Orlando, Memphis and Phoenix, averaging 5.4 ppg., 4.9 rpg., 1.6 apg. and 1.31 blkpg. in 22.7 minpg. During his time with the Magic, Outlaw was recognized for his outstanding work in the Central Florida community with the Rich and Helen DeVos Community Enrichment Award. He won the award three times (1998-99, 2005-06, 2006-07) and is one of only two players in team history to accomplish that feat.

STUFF THE MAGIC MASCOT

On October 27, 1988, STUFF literally burst onto the scene when a large egg was discovered in front of the old Amway Arena. No one is sure where it came from or how it arrived in Orlando. Witnesses, however, reported a giant explosion followed by a shower of deflated basketballs, Orlando Magic bumper stickers, and puffs of green smoke. The oversized green dragon that emerged from the commotion had no idea of the impact he would soon have on "The City Beautiful."

Now in his 23rd season, STUFF is one of the most recognizable mascots in professional sports. STUFF prides himself as the Orlando Magic's number one fan, and he relishes his role as the team "funny guy." Whether seen rolling down the stairs, performing a comedic dance routine with the Magic Dancers, shooting his patented backwards half-court shot, or perhaps throwing a cake in the face of an unsuspecting fan from another team, STUFF seldom seems to slow down his pace. Although unpredictable at times, his comedic timing and impromptu style is guaranteed to bring a smile to the faces of fans both young and old.

Our lovable dragon STUFF can be found at every home Magic game and nearly every Magic-related activity. If you are lucky, you may even see the wild wackiness of his alter ego, Air STUFF. This air-headed, inflatable version of STUFF can often be seen spinning on his head or doing a dance routine with his sidekick, Air STUFF, Jr. Speaking of which, STUFF has his own partners in crime, Mini STUFF and Micro STUFF, who can sometimes be seen aiding him in his mischief and practical jokes. If ever this entire entourage is seen together, you better look out, because trouble is brewing for sure.

For more information on "Orlando's Mascot" or to book him for an event, check out stuffslair.com or follow him on Twitter (@STUFF_Mascot). If you are interested in having STUFF add some "magic" to your next event or birthday party, contact his booking manager, Jeanine Thomas, at 407-916-2675 or email at stuff@orlandomagic.com.

In 1973, he left the Bulls organization to become general manager of the Atlanta Hawks, where he served one season before returning to take over the reins in Philadelphia.

Neumann and his wife, Debbie, reside in Orlando, Fla. They have three children, Brad, Lisa and Stephanie.

RICHIE ADUBATO

Radio Color Analyst

Richie Adubato returns for his seventh season as radio color analyst for the Magic Radio Network, joining Dennis Neumann for all home and road broadcasts. Adubato has followed the career path of lifetime coaches and friends Hubie Brown, Mike Fratello, and Dick Vitale by taking up broadcasting after a career in coaching.

Most recently, Adubato was head coach of the WNBA's Washington Mystics for two-plus seasons, leading the club into the WNBA Playoffs in 2006. He served as head coach of the New York Liberty for five seasons, guiding them to a 100-79 record (.559), three straight playoff berths and three Eastern Conference Championships in 1999, 2000, and 2002. Adubato was also head coach for the Eastern Conference All-Stars in the 2000, 2001, and 2003 WNBA All-Star Games.

Prior to coaching in the WNBA, Adubato spent 19 years in the NBA, including three seasons with the Magic (assistant coach from 1994-97, head coach 1996-97). Adubato won 65 percent of his games as head coach and led the Magic to the playoffs, nearly upsetting Pat Riley's Miami Heat with the help of spectacular play from Penny Hardaway. He served as head coach for the Detroit Pistons (1979-80), Dallas Mavericks (1989-90 to 1992-93) and Orlando, leading his teams to the NBA Playoffs twice. He also served as an assistant coach for New York, Detroit, Dallas, Cleveland and Orlando.

Adubato spent 18 years as a high school and college coach in New Jersey, compiling an overall record if 290-85 (.773). Ironically, one high school player he coached at Our Lady of the Valley High School (Orange, N.J.) in 1964 and 1965 was former Magic Head Coach Brian Hill.

Born in Irvington, N.J. on November 23, 1937, Adubato earned undergraduate and graduate degrees, as well as doctoral credits, in administration from William Paterson University, where he captained both the basketball and baseball teams. Adubato was recently inducted into the William Patterson Hall of Fame for both sports. He married the former Carol Begerow in 1989. Adubato has one daughter, Beth, and two sons, Scott and Adam. He also has two grandchildren, Beth's daughter, Allegra and Scott's son, Sean.

AMWAY CENTER: ENTER LEGEND

AmwayCenter.com

FROM A VISION TO BLUEPRINTS TO REALITY

The Orlando Magic served as the developer of the downtown Amway Center which competes to host major national events, concerts and family shows. The facility is owned and operated by the City of Orlando on behalf of the Central Florida community.

The Amway Center was designed to reflect the character of the community, meet the goals of the users and build on the legacy of sports and entertainment in Orlando.

The building's exterior features a modern blend of glass and metal materials, along with ever-changing graphics via a monumental wall along one façade. A 180-foot tall tower and spire serves as a beacon amid the downtown skyline.

AMENITIES FOR ALL LEVELS OF TICKET BUYERS

At 875,000 square feet, the new arena is almost triple the size of the old Amway Arena. The Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED) Gold certified building features a sustainable, environmentally-friendly design, unmatched technology, featuring 1,100 digital monitors and the tallest, high-definition videoboard in an NBA venue, and multiple premium amenities available to all patrons in the building. Every level of ticket buyer will have access to a number of premium amenities.

"It's a great day for Central Florida. History will look back on this day in the same light as the day that Walt Disney announced he was building his theme park in Orlando," Magic President Alex Martins said the night of the approval, July 26, 2007, adding: "I would like to thank Mayor Rich Crotty and Mayor Buddy Dyer, as well as both the County and City Commissions for their vision and leadership. I would also like to thank the Walt Disney World Company, Universal Orlando, SeaWorld, the Central Florida Hotel and Lodging Association, the Orlando/Orange County Convention and Visitors Bureau, as well as the entire Orlando tourism and business community for their active participation in ensuring this positive outcome for new downtown sports and entertainment facilities for the people who call Central Florida home."

The Magic were major financial participants in the public-private partnership - contributing $50 million toward construction of the Amway Center, $10 million toward the arts center, and $25 million toward construction of five community recreation centers. The Magic's other contributions toward operations, fundraising and financing push the team's total participation in the downtown venue projects to more than $150 million.

In a historic move, the Magic agreed that Amway Center would be designed and constructed to meet the certification criteria for an environmentally "green" building development standard.

"We want this facility to not only serve our community but to reflect our community's values," Martins said.

Populous, formerly HOK Sport, was selected as designer of the Amway Center. Hunt Construction group was selected as the construction manager. The official groundbreaking celebration was held July 25, 2008. The events center was named the Amway Center on August 5, 2008 and the building opened to the public for the first time on October 1, 2010.

Inside the arena, patrons can find modern amenities in a comfortable setting – perfect for hosting family events as well as basketball games. Concourses are spacious, offering unique concessions and activities for kids and adults alike. The Budweiser Baseline Bar on the main Terrace concourse overlooks the event floor, and children will enjoy spending time in the kid-oriented STUFF's Magic Castle presented by Club Wyndham and retail opportunities on the upper Promenade concourse.

"From the inside out, beginning to end we were committed to developing a world class venue that would bring a myriad of events that would appeal to the diverse taste of Central Florida residents," said Mayor Buddy Dyer. "Whether it's a child experiencing his or her first basketball game or two friends singing along at a concert, these are the shared experiences and memories that will be created at the Amway Center."

The Magic's old home, Amway Arena, housed 17,500 seats in just 367,000 square feet of space. The new arena features 875,000 square feet of space – more room to incorporate more modern day amenities found in most professional arenas of the day – and seating which will be expandable to more than 20,000 seats to accommodate major national events.

The new $380 million facility features eight levels, five public concourses, 37 restrooms, 55 concession points of sale, 60 suites, 68 loge boxes, 1,400 club seats. The Amway Center features up to 17 hospitality spaces for rental on a per event basis.

UNIQUELY ORLANDO

"We took a hard and long look at the essence of Orlando before coming up with a design that we believe reflects the best and most distinctive aspects of this community," said AIA, Populous Sport Senior Designer Brad Clark. "And just as importantly, the building will set a new standard in sustainable design as one of the greenest professional sports facilities in the country."

To celebrate Central Florida's moderate climate, the building is filled with a variety of indoor-outdoor spaces. For instance, once guests enter the voluminous, 80-foot-tall Disney Atrium main lobby, they are able to return to the outdoors via a spacious balcony, the Gentleman Jack Terrace, overlooking Church Street.

The arena was designed to respond to its distinct urban setting while revealing the activities occurring within. Bounded by Church Street, Hughey Avenue, South Street and Division Avenue, the arena's primary entrance faces north to Church Street, creating a natural extension of the nearby downtown entertainment core. The Church Street entry features a large public entry plaza connecting the arena's spacious entry lobby.

"In designing the community's new center we feel we created the framework for a facility that will be the catalyst for economic revitalization in downtown's west side, while establishing a flexible design that will serve as a great home and attract the nation's premier events," added the Magic's Martins. "The building has a design unique to Orlando, while providing a framework for environmental sustainability."

JOBS IN A TOUGH ECONOMY

The massive construction project served as a boon to the local construction business in a time when jobs were scarce because of the sharp downturn of the nation's economy.

The Magic and City of Orlando worked closely with local minority and women-owned businesses — some of which were based out of the nearby Parramore community — awarding them with more than 31 percent of the contracts totaling $94-plus million, exceeding the 24 percent benchmark established by the City of Orlando.

Of the 170-plus minority and women-owned firms which worked to construct the facility, 61 were African-American-owned firms, 52 women-owned firms, 37

ENVIRONMENTALLY-FRIENDLY

Sustainable design and construction specifics focused on the opportunities to create an environmentally-friendly building in various categories. Among them: providing water efficiency; optimizing energy and atmosphere protection; conserving materials and resources; monitoring indoor environmental quality and health; selecting environmentally preferred operations and maintenance.

These elements combine to create one of the most environmentally-friendly, high-performing professional arenas in the country and the first NBA arena which was originally designed and constructed to be Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED) Gold certified.

MOST TECHNOLOGICALLY-ADVANCED BUILDING IN NORTH AMERICA

Harris Corporation is the official technology partner of Amway Center. The arena has more than 1,100 screens of high-definition content via Internet Protocol Television and a state-of-the-art digital signage network which maximizes fan engagement and interaction, distributes an unprecedented amount of patron information, as well as providing unlimited opportunities for advertisers and sponsors.

The Daktronics center-hung scoreboard alone includes four primary high definition LED video displays with 840 lines of resolution, eight auxiliary video/scoring/statistics displays and two LED ring displays. The venue will be the first in the world to utilize high resolution 6 mm surface mount LED pixel technology on all of the center-hung digital displays. More than 9 million individual LEDs will be used in the 18 displays incorporated into the center-hung scoreboard. Overall dimensions of the center-hung scoreboard are 42 feet by 41 feet by 41 feet (HxWxD), making it the tallest and most capable of any in NBA venues. Complementing the primary scoreboard will be two LED ribbon boards mounted on the interior fascia of the seating decks.

The bigger size, flexibility and advanced technology allows Orlando to attract bigger concerts, major political conventions and compete for more major sporting events such as conference and NCAA tournaments.

Amway Center is located just south of Church Street on the west side of I-4 in downtown Orlando.

``We've designed a facility that has so many built-in amenities for every level of ticket-buyer," Martins said. ``So many of these buildings in the past have been designed where a lot of the amenities have focused only on the premium ticket-buyer, the courtside seat holder or the club seat holder. But here with the new Amway Center, we have bars, restaurants and clubs on every level for every ticket-buyer; and that's for Magic games and every event. So it really is a building that has a high level of amenity for everybody."

"Over the past three years, we have focused on revitalizing the Parramore neighborhood and have experienced a resurgence in our downtown," said Orlando Mayor Buddy Dyer as the design for the building was unveiled on December 11, 2007. "Today marks another important day in our efforts, as the facility takes shape with the design unveiling of this new landmark…a landmark that will be a gathering place for all of Orlando and Central Florida."
